

Occupational Health and Safety Policy

At Trinity Metals, we believe that all injuries, occupational illnesses, and diseases are preventable and that the care for our people is the priority of doing business

Trinity Metals is committed to the health, safety, and well-being of our employees and the surrounding communities.

We collectively recognise and accept the responsibility of providing and maintaining a healthy and safe working environment, conditions, equipment, and work systems for all our employees, contractors, and visitors. Our approach to health and safety is based on identifying hazards and controlling risks while striving to create a positive safety culture.

We are committed to the following:

- Complying with all relevant laws, regulations, and standards.
- Identifying all hazards and assessing the associated risks while taking appropriate action to manage these risks.
- Investigating and acting on all health and safety incidents.
- Adopting a culture of caring and an awareness of each other's safety and health.
- Engaging all employees and key stakeholders to implement an effective and sustainable health and safety management system.
- Prioritising education and training to establish a competent workforce.
- Taking personal and collective responsibility for our health and safety performance.
- Ensuring continuous improvement in managing our health and safety performance by setting clear objectives and measurable targets.

We will strive to eliminate all hazards that could cause personal illnesses and injuries.

We will strive to achieve zero harm to support our desire to be a highly responsible mining company.
